Influence from Great Eastern Japan Earthquake and Electricity Limitation

Dear Customers;

We, Delta Electronics Japan, would like to express our sincere compassion for the victims and their families of the disaster occurred on March 11, 2011. We are all longing for sooner recovery and restoration.

Our production facilities are not located in the area of concern and no impacts on the production activities are expected. Our headquarters located at Minato-ku, Tokyo are operating normally and all the staff members are not damaged or injured. To secure employee safety from scheduled blackouts and continuing afterquakes, some staff are working at their homes however we are conducting all the necessary counter measures to continuously provide our services to our customers.

Currently, due to the limitation of transportation system and damages on the infrastructures, we are concerning about the delay in the shipments and deliveries of our products. Our front end staff will report to each of the customers respectively when and if any delays or impact to any of our services would be expected.

We will render our utmost effort to avoid any impacts on our services to the customers with thorough communication with Taiwan Headquarters and all the related overseas facilities.

Sincerely yours,

Delta Electronics (Japan) Inc.
